Miscellaneous Notes

Snow scene Ryberg cabin

Break up monotony of tree line & sky line with some billowing clouds. maybe one low hill move stream where it disappears into picture and away from edge - so it doesn't run out of picture -

Place something in near foreground ^{left} ~~to~~ to break monotony and balance out picture - finish cabin - maybe some tracks - snow shoes etc. a wolverine? snow machine? wolf in left foreground? or a hare?

if it appears occupied - put some icicles hanging.

maybe raise height of trees on left - maybe make one prominent bushy tree and obscure stream at point where it flows out of the picture - put a path or trail passed the cabin disappearing in the direction of the stream - perhaps hang a wash tub on cabin - maybe a saw - crosscut - maybe put out a sawjack -

THE FRESHNESS
THE FARNESS

blue BC

Slope from path to draw or gully Past left foreground tree - change direction of shadow on this tree darken shadows of trees darken behind trees in thickets darken trunks - darken and distinguish butt ends - high light snag & wind falls detail rocks Put more light into grassy slopes on sunny side like the lightest spot there now - check size of elk and place near snag (leaning dead tree) get proportion of elks size -

work on path - narrow to a game trail smooth like glass

Put a wash or two in it - some stones or limbs also lower end of path -

Change the direction of the shadows on two nearest shadows in right foreground come from off the picture - right side one tree appears to have a light colored snag -

Path next to frame needs work on it.

appears to have a line most of the way across picture just above frame - as a border change it -

new cabin with porch change the vanishing point so the entire cabin slopes down as the lines move to edge of painting - bring tall trees in foreground on left to flatten foreground up to cabin - Do not have it appear on slope up but on knoll - when dry, try to move canvas on top + left margins
